

A STAR TRANSPORTATION & SERVICES
MR KELVIN OH, Director

YOUR PROFESSIONAL MOVERS

Logistics companies have always played an essential role in facilitating the relocation of urban dwellers. A Star Transportation, founded by Mr Kelvin Oh, has provided professional relocation services for households and offices since its inception in 2010.

As a seasoned trade veteran of more than two decades, Mr Oh originally worked alongside his brother within the industry before founding A Star Transportation on his own. Initially, Mr Oh faced manpower challenges, having to manage all business aspects himself. Luckily with the support of his wife helping with admin and website duties, along with two long-term staff members, A Star Transportation soon gained traction within the industry.

The company places an emphasis on providing a highly personalised and worry-free experience for today's more discerning clients. With main services catering towards residential relocation, A Star Transportation also caters towards office, warehouse and factory relocation with professional contract delivery. This includes the safe shipping of pianos and other large instruments, all in a timely manner. Having its own warehouse space also allows A Star Transportation to provide storage and disposal services for a full suite of complementary services.

A Star Transportation values transparency in operations, providing free quotations with inspection on-site, and no hidden or additional charges. In maintaining full disclosure during the move, Mr Oh and his team freely communicate with clients to keep them apprised and assured. The tight-knit, veteran team work in tandem to bring clients an easy moving experience.

A Star Transportation's expertise really shone through the moving of a 3-room HDB flat, where the large number of antiques required special care and attention to detail. Taking a little longer for the move, the team ensured the safe arrival of all antiques, making sure that none of the antiques were stacked or damaged during the move. With the team's commitment to excellence, A Star Transportation now gains most of its new clientele from word of mouth along with its website and other online avenues.

As Mr Oh notes, "the bigger the operations, the more pressure there is". The founder stresses that company growth has to be well-managed alongside current operations. As such, A Star Transportation is taking expansion step by step, consolidating efforts on stabilising operations within Singapore and Singapore-based moves. With A Star's commitment to personalised relocation services alongside Mr Oh's slow and steady approach to expansion, the company is sure to overcome future challenges and continue to thrive.
